

Winter Book Display

With the nights drawing in, the holidays looming large and term coming to a close, it's time to warm your hands around a seasonal read!

From the reindeer herders of Arctic Sweden, to a mysterious island off Greenland via post-apocalyptic northern Canada, a snow bound Japan, eastern Turkey and inter-war London, travel the world without leaving the warmth and comfort of your own room.

*For more traditional fare, why not cosy up with Charles Dickens and Wilkie Collins, relive the story of The Nutcracker or enjoy a modern twist to classic tales in The Gift of the Magi and The Gap of Time.*

*As winter encroaches, we all need a little brightness to get us through, reading The Light in the Dark or Nature Tales for Winter Nights, might just help illuminate your way through the dark mornings and even darker nights.*

Lose yourself in the magic of mysterious woods, retold fairy tales and fireside stories of the ghosts and spirits of Christmas. As mesmerising as the flames in the hearth, these books will stay with you long after the embers have died and the snow has melted.
